PRESENTS

ELECTION 2022: ENVISIONING OREGON'S FUTURE

A collection of activities and materials to help students understand the processes and issues of the 2022 General Election

Introduction

September 2022

A Note from Classroom Law Project:

We know that discussing political issues with our students is often unpredictable and challenging, particularly during an election year—and especially in our current national political climate. We at Classroom Law Project are pleased to offer you a series of activities targeted to middle- and high-school grades to help you and your students sort through this year's election issues.

Our theme for our 2022 set of materials is Envisioning Oregon's Future. This year's edition focuses on several topics:

- electing Oregon's next governor
- direct democracy in Oregon
- voting behavior
- voting rights
- a culminating classroom hearing

We have designed these materials so that individual teachers can integrate these materials into existing curriculum, use some or all of the curriculum as written, or create lessons to suit their individual needs. Please pick and choose what works best for you and your students. Essential Questions, Objectives, Vocabulary, and Oregon Standards (Social Studies and Literacy Standards in History/Social Studies) provide a basic framework for each section of this document.

Classroom Law Project believes that teaching democracy well requires students to practice democracy. As such, this series of activities culminates in a final mock legislative hearing in which you can involve everyone in your classes. All students testify before a simulated legislative committee made up of community members you invite into your classroom. All of the how-to's are included here for you to create this fun and memorable experience for your students and members of the community. Through this hearing, students will be able to participate in an active, informed community "discussion" and demonstrate what they have learned from the process.

Thank you for your involvement with Classroom Law Project; we hope that these materials will introduce creative and thoughtful conversations in your classroom and give students the opportunity to engage with issues that will directly affect their everyday lives.

Use. Enjoy. Vote!

ELECTIONS 2022: ENVISIONING OREGON'S FUTURE

GOALS

Teachers will have the opportunity to:

- Choose from a variety of topics for their students to engage with during election season
- Relate the activities and materials to students' lives
- Build a sense of community and civic culture among students as they work together
- Measure growth in students' understanding of election and voting issues
- Improve students' ability to engage with people of voting age about the issues this election year

Students will be able to:

- Consider the process of selecting Oregon's next governor
- Compare and contrast perspectives on the ballot measures proposed in 2022
- Assess the history of voting rights in the United States
- Understand major issues around voting in the United States, including lowering the voting age; restoring the franchise to convicted felons; and legislative redistricting/gerrymandering
- Determine the factors that impact voter turnout
- Create a plan for encouraging eligible voters to register and to vote
- Demonstrate their learning by testifying before members of the community

ELECTIONS 2022: ENVISIONING OREGON'S FUTURE

Starter Activity: Theme & Pre-Unit Student Survey

In addition to providing information about Oregon's gubernatorial and ballot initiative process, we have focused on voter turnout and motivations, the history of voting rights, and contemporary issues around voting access.

The following is a handout that gives your students the opportunity to write their thoughts about election-related themes. You can hand this out to your students before beginning any section of this election curriculum. A post-unit survey asks students the same questions again (see Activity 5.3). We hope you will see a significant increase in students' understanding as a result of these activities.

CULTIVATING CIVIC CLASSROOM CULTURE

In The Political Classroom: Evidence and Ethics in Democratic Education, scholars Diana Hess and Paula McAvoy argue that civics teachers should position the question “How should we live together?” at the center of their classroom culture. In designing a space for effective civic discourse, teachers should establish a clear purpose for their curriculum, build lessons and units around sound teaching strategies and content understanding, and incorporate awareness about their own students’ abilities, backgrounds, and learning needs into their planning.

When teaching about politically charged issues—and partisan elections can include some of the most controversial topics—teachers should approach their lessons with intentionality and integrity. It is never possible (nor academically sound) to avoid controversy in the Humanities; in fact, creating effective civic spaces should instead focus on helping students develop the tools to engage with controversial subjects in healthy ways. Teaching these lessons about the 2022 elections happens within a classroom culture where students listen to one another, pose thoughtful questions, respect differences of opinion, build their own positions around evidence, and take responsibility for their own learning.

These activities are not exhaustive—creating a civic space in a social studies classroom requires constant nurturing and cultivation—but they can help create the foundation of a culture in which students study issues related to the 2022 elections.

In addition, we offer resources from other organizations committed to supporting teachers in the creation of civic classroom cultures.

Grades 11–12 Literacy Standards in History/Social Studies (2019)

Reading Informational Text

- 11-12.RH.1 Analyze what the text says explicitly as well as inferentially; cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support primary and secondary source analysis, connecting insights gained from specific details to an understanding of the text as a whole.
- 11-12.RH.2 Determine the central ideas or information of a primary or secondary source; provide an accurate and evidence-based summary that makes clear the relationships among the key details and ideas.
- 11-12.RH.3 Evaluate various explanations for actions or events and determine which explanation best accords with textual evidence, acknowledging where the text leaves matters uncertain.
- 11-12.RH.4 Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including analyzing how an author uses and refines the meaning of a key term over the course of a text.
- 11-12.RH.7 Integrate and evaluate multiple sources of information presented in diverse formats and media in order to address a question or solve a problem.
- 11-12.RH.8 Evaluate an author’s premises, claims, and evidence by corroborating or challenging them with other information.
- 11-12.RH.9 Integrate information from diverse sources, both primary and secondary, into a coherent understanding of an idea or event, noting discrepancies among sources.

Writing

- 11-12.WHST.1 Write arguments focused on discipline-specific content.
- 11-12.WHST.4 Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.
- 11-12.WHST.8 Gather relevant information from multiple authoritative print and digital sources, using advanced searches effectively; assess the strengths and limitations of each source in terms of the specific task, purpose, and audience; integrate information into the text selectively to maintain the flow of ideas, avoiding plagiarism and overreliance on any one source and following a standard format for citation.
- 11-12.WHST.9 Draw evidence from informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research.

QUOTES ABOUT VOTING

Nobody will ever deprive the American people of the right to vote except the American people themselves and the only way they could do this is by not voting.

~ Franklin D. Roosevelt (32nd US President)

All that is needed for the triumph of evil is for good people to do nothing.

~ Edmund Burke (British statesman and philosopher 1729-1797)

The vote is the emblem of your equality, women of America, the guarantee of your liberty. ...Prize it! Understand what it means and what it can do for your country. Use it intelligently, conscientiously, prayerfully.

~ Carrie Chapman Catt (suffragist & founder of the League of Women Voters)

Bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote.

~ George Jean Nathan, American Journalist (1882-1958)

The most important office...that of the private citizen.

~ Louis D. Brandeis, US Supreme Court Justice

The future of this republic is in the hands of the American voter.

~ Dwight D. Eisenhower (34th US President)

The Voting Rights Act was, and still is, vitally important to the future of democracy in the United States.

~ Coretta Scott King (civil rights leader)

Elections belong to the people. It's their decision. If they decide to turn their back on the fire and burn their behinds, then they will just have to sit on their blisters.

~ Abraham Lincoln (16th US President)

The stakes are too high for government to be a spectator sport.

~ Barbara Jordan (Civil Rights leader and member of the US House of Representatives)
